OPENING OF SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION BRINGS MANY

The first day of the thirteenth annual convention of the Washington Sunday School Association which convened in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Monongahela, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, was a grand success.

At every session the program as it was published in the Mail has been carried out in its entirety. The numerous speakers responded to their names promptly. So well had each separate number been prepared that the subjects were fully covered and an enlightening address given on each topic in the time allotted. All tediousness was done away with which enhanced the enjoyment derived by the hearers and enabled them to gather more genuine benefit from the convention.

The session opened promptly at the hour named, with a children's chorus, led by Prof. Robert Kay. Mrs. G. H. Thomas read an interesting paper on the subject "As the Child Grows."

In the afternoon, Rev. G. G. Kerr delivered an address. At the evening session Rev. C. L. McKee of Washington talked interestingly of "The Land and the Book" speaking of his travels in the land of Palestine. His lecture was illustrated by lantern views.

This morning's session was opened at 9 o'clock by Rev. Riggs of Roscoe who conducted devotional services. Joseph Kenyon of Charleroi spoke on "Week Day Work," his talk being along the lines of the superintendency of a Sunday School.

This afternoon pennants were awarded to two schools of Washington county for work in the different departments during the year. The Washington Avenue Presbyterian Sunday School of Charleroi and the Presbyterian of Finleyville were the ones that took the honors. The Finleyville district won a banner for department work. Those in charge of the afternoon program were General Secretary Landis of Philadelphia, Rev. E. C. Paxton, Washington; S. W. Hall, Washington; Mrs. G. H. Thomas, Charleroi; Mrs. Jennie Pollock, Canonsburg; R. S. Rankin, Hickory; W. W. Hunter, Buffalo; Mrs. Mary L. Stewart, Washington; T. R. Bell, West Alexander; Charles E. Newlin, Indianapolis, Ind.; Rev. W. H. Shawyer.

This evening's session will be among the best of the convention. Charles E. Newlin, of Indianapolis, Ind. will deliver his popular lecture, "The Unconstitutionality of Legalizing Wrong."

Quite a number of Charleroi persons are attending the convention and many more expect to go down tonight to hear Mr. Newlin.

Late this afternoon a banner was awarded the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school of Charleroi for the largest number on the cradle roll in the county. Mrs. G. H. Thomas is the superintendent of this department. The total enrollment is 169 members. The Methodist Episcopal Sunday School of Monongahela was awarded the banner for the largest Sunday school in the county, with an enrollment of 952 members.

RURAL CARRIER USES AUTOMOBILE OVER HIS ROUTE

West Brownsville Man May Introduce New System.

Through the courtesy of Dr. A. C. Smith, of Brownsville, Rural Mail Carrier R. R. McKinley from the postoffice at West Brownsville was taken over his route yesterday by automobile. The 24 miles of the route were covered in exactly one hour and 45 minutes which establishes a record in Washington county. Besides Dr. Smith and Carrier McKinley the party was composed of Dr. Smith's two sons and Editor Cause of the Clipper-Monitor.

The trip was made by Dr. Smith with a view of showing what could be done in the way of time-saving over the route and with the idea of ascertaining where the roads might be improved. A movement is already under way looking to the betterment of the highways in that section.

Mr. McKinley was pleased with the auto experiment and he is considering the advisability of using a machine on his route. In case the roads are materially improved so that a car can be used throughout the year he will, within the next year or so, purchase a machine for Uncle Sam's service.

MR. TENER DEDICATES INDIANA ELK'S HOME

Indiana, Pa., June 11.—Following exercises by the local lodge the Indiana Elks' new home was dedicated at 7 o'clock this evening by General Excelsior R. J. Tener of Charleroi. J. Wood Clark was toastmaster at the banquet that followed. The chief address was by Mr. Tener, who was introduced by Justice John P. Eakin. Talks were given by Mr. Eakin and Rev. Dr. Rosecamp. The new building, which cost $10,000, is the largest of its kind in the county.

Hutchinson.

Mrs. Olive Jane Hutchinson, widow of Henry Hutchinson, who died Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John E. Grube, Parkersburg, West Virginia, a native of the Bennington, N. Y., county, is now residing in this county. Her husband was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county, and was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county. Her husband was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county, and was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county.

One of the above is stated to have paid for the services of the Italian who was arrested in connection with the abduction of the child. The child has been found alive and is now in the hands of the Italian. The Italian account would seem to place Eden in the old Mesopotamia, the region of the "great rivers," the Euphrates and Tigris.—New York American.

TWO TEACHERS RESIGN POSITIONS AT DONORA

In a meeting held by the Donora School Board, the resignations of Miss Mamie E. Dewar and Miss Lillian Crow were read and accepted. Two sets of maps were purchased for the schools. The tax duplicates amounting to $24.75 were turned over to the tax collector.

MERCHANTS ARE EXCITED OVER BASEBALL TEAM

Probable That Nine Will be Formed from Association to Play Doctors.

The members of the Charleroi Merchants' Association are greatly excited over a probable baseball team which is to be formed from their midst, for the purpose of first taking the scalp of a nine composed of physicians, druggists and lawyers of the town, and then go forth into other lands for conquest, like King Arthur and his braves of old. They are expected to advance into the territories of Monongahela and Monessen and wipe out any body of business, professional, laboring etc. men, that dare dispute their right of way in the baseball field.

George S. Night is the manager of the team and issues a challenge to the doctors, druggists and lawyers of Charleroi for a game (?) of baseball sometime this summer. Mr. Night will have his boys out for practice in a few days. A captain will be chosen later after the makeup of the team is learned.

STRIKE OVER MATTER OF CHECKWEIGHMAN

A strike was declared at Edgewood No. 3 yesterday, owing it is said, to a dispute over a checkweighman. A new official was elected by the men a few days ago, and this morning it is alleged the company officials refused to allow him to go on the job, claiming he had recently been discharged as a beer agent by a testing company. When the miners were apprised to the action of the company the refusal to go on the job was decided.

Pierce.

Mrs. Joseph E. Pierce of Marquette, W. Va., for a son of California, is now residing in this county. Her husband was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county, and was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county.

Tennison's Terror. There was a story of Tennison in the town of Vicksburg, Miss. Tennison was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county, and was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county. Tennison was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county, and was a member of the Bennington, N. Y., county.

Looking Backward. A Mississippi official tells of a colored citizen of that state who gave a justice of the peace a big fat possum as a wedding fee. A year after the justice on meeting the darky asked: "Joe, how do you like married life?" "Well, sah," answered Joe ruefully, "all I kin say is I wish I'd eat dat possum."

TO PURCHASE DESKS FOR NEW BUILDING

An adjourned meeting of the school board will be held tonight, when all unfinished business will be taken up, among which will likely be the purchasing of desks and seats for the new school building on Crest avenue.

Mrs. J. W. Cordes of Fallowfield avenue is in McKeesport, spending a few days with friends.

CONSTABLES ARE SENT COPIES OF OPINION

District Attorney Acheson has mailed to all constables in Washington county, a copy of the recent opinion of Judge McIlvaine touching the beer agent. Accompanying the opinion is a letter from the District Attorney in which he calls attention to the fact that Frank Mason, a beer agent, was convicted in the courts of this county for selling liquor without a license. The district attorney says the opinion fully defines the right and duties of the beer agent, and tells just what they can and cannot do, within the law. The prosecuting officer then directs the constables that after familiarizing themselves with the opinion, they investigate the methods pursued in any bullwicks, and if any are found violating the law as laid down in the opinion they are to institute proceedings immediately, providing evidence can be secured such as will secure conviction.

Judge W. M. Lanning, of the United States District court, district of New Jersey, has made an order restraining Robert B. Ivory, Charles G. Kiskaddon, and Elmer W. Moore, trading as Ivory, Kiskaddon and Moore, from further prosecuting a suit started in the local court of common pleas against Joseph Banford, Onora, a bankrupt. The case was on the trial list for this term of common pleas court, but has been continued indefinitely on receipt of the higher court's order.

A decision is expected in the case of D. B. Forest against the Grand Opera house company of Washington sometime today. The case was given to the jury late yesterday afternoon. It has been on trial before Judge Taylor for more than two days. The defense was that the furnishings, to recover the price for which the suit was brought, were included in the lease of the building, and nothing was paid concerning payment for them until after all the original papers had been signed by both parties.

The suit of Mrs. Lizzie Caldwell against John L. Cockins, guardian of Nancy Guthrie, deceased, is still on trial before Judge McIlvaine.

BURGESS HOTT MAKES STATEMENT

To the Mail: In the issue of the Washington Observer of June 11 appears the following: "It is said that J. J. Hott, superintendent of the Charleroi brewery, was rather warm when he read that Judge McIlvaine said that the beer agent was a device to evade the law. Really the judge should be more careful in his language."

There is no truth in this statement so far as I am concerned. I did not comment on what the court recommended, believing that the court is fully capable of interpreting the law governing the liquor traffic. I believe the law should be lived up to in every respect, according to the court's dictation, and as one interested in the business, I will say that I have never been able to comply with the law in every respect.

WRECK IN WHICH ONE IS FATALLY INJURED

An accident, fatal in its results, occurred here last evening between the Baltimore and Ohio express and a local passenger train. The express train was a passenger train, and the local train was a passenger train. The express train was a passenger train, and the local train was a passenger train.

He was unconscious when removed from his engine. He suffered a fracture of the right leg, crushed foot and injured head. His home is at Connellville, and he has been an engineer on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad 20 years. The wreck was caused by the engine train attempting to get on sidings on the passenger train's time. A flagman was sent out, but he did not get far enough to stop the express. The passengers escaped with serious injury, but were shaken up and frightened. Both engines were put out of commission. Fifteen persons in all were injured, more or less seriously.

INTERESTING SOCIETY NEWS OF THE DAY

Mrs. W. A. Miksch and daughter, Mrs. Fred Pieper entertained at euchre Tuesday afternoon. Six tables were set and an enjoyable time was had by the guests.

The Ladies Aid society of the First Presbyterian church will hold a strawberry festival Thursday evening, June 18, at the home of W. C. Clark.

A Merry Widow social will be held Friday evening, June 19, by the Ladies of the First Christian church.

A picnic was held at Eldora Park last evening by a crowd of young people from Charleroi. Baskets of good things were taken, and everything was done to make the affair a most enjoyable occasion. An old fashioned picnic lunch was served shortly after six o'clock. The evening was spent in dancing.

Bids Wanted. $1000.00 wanted for 12,000 bushels of run of mine and net coal to be furnished to the different school houses of Charleroi.

Also bids wanted from contractors for 2,700 feet of cement walk at Crest avenue building. All bids to be in before June 19, at 10 a. m. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Specifications and articles of agreement can be seen at Secretary's office in the north building.

IRA L. NICKESON, Secretary.

Reduced Rates on Local.

To the surprise of local railroad men and for the first time since the beginning of the two-cent legislation, announcement was made yesterday by E. A. Ford, passenger traffic manager of the Pennsylvania lines, that excursion rates for July 4 would be granted by the company this summer. The Baltimore and Ohio, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and other interested lines are expected to take similar action. The rate is placed at a fare and a half for the round trip between all points on the Pennsylvania lines, tickets not to be sold under $1. Tickets will be sold on July 3 and 4 and will be good returning until July 6.

To "Do Over"

Much roughly thrown together, crudely soldered, ill-looking repair work comes to us. New patrons brings it to us to "do over." Same way with timepieces, from the daintiest watch to the largest clock. They all give plain proof of tampering rather than adjustment; all this tells us that nothing short of our own way of doing things right will build a business.

Why They Desert.

A great deal of comment has been aroused by the fact that about one thousand sailors have deserted the American navy while along the California coast. Various reasons have been assigned, but the real one is that no ambitious American youth will stay in any position where there is no chance for him to reach the highest rung in the ladder.

Napoleon understood this when he told the conscripts that every one of them carried a Marshal's baton in his knapsack. The list of his Marshals proved that he made his statement come true. And it was one of these marshals who, in addressing some raw recruits, said: "My sons, there are some captains among you. The first battle will tell who they are and they shall have their places." And they got them and the result was a fighting machine that was a terror to the civilized world and which won the admiration of even its enemies.

Several volunteers have reached the highest command in the United States army. But not since Baneroff succeeded in having the Naval Academy established in the forties has a volunteer seaman been an admiral, with the exceptions of Farragut and Porter in the Sixties.

Today it is practically impossible for a naval recruit to reach a command higher than that of a gun sergeant. He may be as well-educated both technically and practically as any man on the ship, and yet after years of faithful and intelligent services, he finds himself but a peg or two higher than when he started and under the orders of a mere youth whom fortune has given a chance to graduate from Annapolis.

Had such a system been in vogue in the infancy of our nation, we would be unable to glory in the achievements of "Jack" Barry, and Jones, Decatur, Porter, Stewart, McDonough, Perry, Hull, and the other naval immor-tals who "made John Bull listen."

It is true that the ships, and all connected with them have changed and the service has become one of a matter of mechanical and technical skill, but there is no reason why a well-equipped young graduate from one of our great technical schools should be excluded from a chance to command an American war vessel. Until he is given that chance, desertions will be many. Until he knows that he carries an admiral's stars in his bud; et he will fight shy of the navy.

May Arbitrate.

The defection of the Washington
Observer has created such consternation in the Republican party that heroic methods will be resorted to avoid an open rupture. It is stated by wireless that Senator Knox hastily departed for Washington, D. C., to interview President Roosevelt and have him use his good offices to have the matter referred to the High Arbitral Court at The Hague. It is highly important that the casus belli remain in status quo until a commission is appointed and a court of Cassation passes upon the matter.

Meanwhile the little weak Republican party seeks protection from the encroachments of the Observer by forgetting that there is any such thing.
Arbitration is the only method by which such matters should be settled, and in this enlightened age public opinion will hardly sustain the Observer in crushing its weak opponent.
It is also stated that should Senator Knox succeed in his mission the "Nobel Peace Prize" of fifty thousand francs will be given him in recognition of his services in securing peace.

Open To Criticism.

There is a small but noisy cult in this country who would erect the judiciary upon a pedestal as something to be spoken of in whispers and criticised at the peril of an auto de fe.

There are no official sacrosanets in the United States. There is no official whose personal and official acts are beyond and above public discussion and criticism. The inviolability of a lawyer with judicial robes does not clothe him with infallibility for if it did we would not have Circuit Courts, Supreme Courts and Supreme Courts with their five to four decisions. Those who think the judiciary should be free from criticism should read the Declaration of Independence and a certain document which Daniel Webster said
"was made on the drum heads of the Revolution" and they will discover that our fathers entertained no hal-lucinations concerning the sanctity of the judiciary.

Judges and their administration of law are entitled to respect and should not be criticised "for light and transient causes," but at the same time they are open to criticism for their acts as a pathmaster or a hogriever would be.

To Be Remembered.

It should not be forgotten by any body anywhere, in under any circumstances that the Republican party is the majority party. It is the majority in Washington county; it is the majority party in Pennsylvania and the majority party in the United States. The
"Three Tailors of Tooley Street," who issued a manifesto under the name of "We, The People of England," did not commit a greater absurdity or a more transparent humbug than the Observer does when it emblazons its Standard of Spite with the name of the majority party. "We, the Washington Observer," and "We, The People of England," are synonymous with jocular bombast.

The Preservation of Caste.

It is well known how carefully, apparently at least, the Hindoos are to preserve their caste from contamination with anything of a lower order.
In towns where Hindoos and Mussulmans, followers of Mohammed, live side by side the sellers of drinking water supply the liquid through little porcelain, one for each religion. The drinker is thus supposed to be ignorant of the caste of the man who supplies
the water and his own caste is consequently unbroken.

From Hand to Mouth.

"I'll never speak to him again!" exclaimed the dark young woman. "He called me his queen and asked if I might kiss his hand. I said yes, and after that he kissed me on the lips without asking."
"I suppose," said the light young woman, "he followed along the line of least resistance."

Melancholy Milk.

"Haven't you any milk that is more cheerful than this?" queried the new boarder as he poured some of the liquid into his coffee.
"Why, what do you mean by that?"
queried the landlady.
"Oh, nothing," rejoined the new boarder, "only this milk seems to have the blues."

Mean of Her.

"Everybody says baby is very like me," said young Mrs. Papley fondly.
"Yes, the cute little thing," remarked Miss Diggs. "What fat ankles she has!"—Philadelphia Press.

Among the Exchanges

Every man who has had business in court either as a witness or as a jury-man will coincide with the following taken from the Monessen News:

Most men, especially those making good wages, recognize a summons to serve on a jury as equivalent to placing a smallpox sign on their homes.
The reason is the small pay received and the great waste of time. The lawyers in the case are responsible for the wasting of time. Most of the talk by lawyers before jurors is mere chatter. This gabble takes time and time is money to the average juror. But it must be kept in mind that lawyers are paid for gabbling and so they gabble, let it cost the juror what it may. An accurate transcript of the talk in an average lawsuit would be enough to fill a human mind with despair. The courts listen day after day to arguments over half of which are the sheerest waste, for the courts forget them before it comes around to the time for making a decision in the matter.

Nobody knows what all this useless palaver costs the general public.
The juror, however, knows what it costs him in time taken from his own affairs. Naturally he is anxious to avoid the loss. When cases are tried with promptness and dispatch, there will be little trouble about jury service.

Commenting upon the death of a man as the result of a practical joke,
the McKeesport Times says:

The county coroner, in preferring a murder charge against John Pendell, the Duquesne hazy whose brutal "joke" cost a fellow-workman, Charles Kaseberg, his life, stated that he made the more serious charge against Pendell for exemplary effect, and intimidated that otherwise the absence of evidence of malice aforethought or intent to kill would have caused him to prefer a charge of manslaughter. It was well that the coroner decided to make Pendell's case an expensatory one. The man probably did not intend to kill his victim but he must be a fool if he imagined that his joke was likely to be harmless to its victim. A man's life was sacrificed to gratify the peculiar ideas of humor the "joker" seem to have entertained, and there should be a severe atonement. A long term in prison would be a righteous punishment for Pendell and it might have a deterrent effect upon fools with similar propensities. The practical joker who believes that no risk—to the victim—of dangerous results should be allowed to spoil a charge to display the joker's humorous talent, is too numerous and as an institution he ought to be abolished. It would be a move in the interest of public safety to classify careless, bungling pranks and other crimes under the law and treat them in the same manner. Some of the most dangerous and deadly jokes are the sort of which the Duquesne man is a conspicuous specimen. The grand jury and the criminal court have an opportunity now to rebuke a fool practitioner admonish the fools and establish an excellent precedent.

A Bride With Some Good Points.

Some years ago in an agricultural district in England there lived a farmer who wanted to sell one of his cows.
There was not at that time a weekly paper in which he could advertise, so he resolved to follow a local custom and ask the vicar of the parish when giving out his notices at church to advertise the cow.

"Yes, farmer," said the vicar. "I should be willing to oblige you, but you don't attend my church."

Presently, however, they struck a bargain that the vicar should advertise the cow, and the man in return promised to go to church. Now, unfortunately the man was deaf, and on the Sunday following when the vicar gave out the banns of marriage between Joseph So-and-so, bachelor, and Sarah So-and-so, spinster, the farmer took it for granted that the vicar was giving out particulars of his cow and shouted out:

"You might as well say while you are about it that she is a most gentle creature and entirely free from vice."

Works Both Ways.

"They bore one," these society calls don't you know," declared the young lady. "They bore one."
"Sometimes they bore two," responded the young man, taking the hint and likewise his departure.—Louisville Cou-

A Preserve Owner's Sick Trout.

A man whose experience as a sportsman had been limited to an occasional day's fishing in the mountains bought for himself a place with a fine trout preserve on Long Island. He looked forward with great interest to the first opening day, as that would be his first opportunity to fish in his own pond, and when the day at last arrived the first streak of daylight found him leaving his house, rod in hand.
A day or two later a sportsman friend inquired as to what luck he had had.
"I caught plenty of fish, and big ones, too," responded the owner of the preserve. "There are plenty of trout in the pond, but they all seem to be sick."

"Why, what's the matter with them?" asked the sportsman.
"Well," answered the preserve owner, "to tell the truth, we were afraid to eat them. Their flesh is pink, and I never saw a brook trout that color before."

"Don't you know, man," exclaimed the sportsman, with a laugh, "that any trout will turn pink if it lives in salt water? Your pond empties into the sound, and of course the trout run in and out. The next time you have any of that sort of sick trout just send them in to me, and I'll eat them for you with pleasure."—New York Times.

A Tiny State.

The miniature republic of San Marino is a mere dot on the map of Europe, being the smallest state in the world as well as the oldest independent republic. Its area is thirty-eight square miles, only a little less than twice that of the island of Manhattan.
It lies entirely in Italy, but is wholly independent. Its situation is on the easterly side of the Etruscan Apennines and about twelve miles from Rimini, on the Adriatic sea. The territory is only twenty-four miles in length, and the population would make only a small city ward, numbering less than 12,000. There is no public debt, and the annual expenses met by taxation amount to $600,000. The country has bronze and silver currency, coined by Italy, 158,000 lire of the latter and 105, 000 of the former. The principal exports are wine, cattle and stone. The military force of the republic numbers 28 officers and 350 men.

The Wild Boar.

The wild boar is the most courageous animal. The element of luck counts for a great deal in pig sticking, as in most other forms of sport, and it often happens that the foremost sportsman who by dint of hard riding or thanks to the fastest horse has come up with the quarry is deprived of the coveted honor of "first spear" by a sudden
"jink" or turn of the pig. The boar, in spite of his clumsy appearance, is not only possessed of a great turn of speed, but is extraordinarily active. He will turn and twist like a hare, putting every obstacle in the shape of bushes, rocks, water, etc., between himself and his pursuers, but all the time making for the nearest patch of jungle and safety. The pace after pig is faster than the best of runs with hounds, but is sooner over.—Illustrated Sporting
and Dramatic News.

Worse Than Too Bad.
The suburbanite stood on the back platform of the car smoking a morning cigar. He struck up a conversation with the conductor when that brass buttoned gent was not busy.
"Whatever became of that basket of eggs that was left on your car?" he inquired.
"I took them home," gloomily replied the conductor.
At the astonished look from the passenger the conductor explained:

"You see, any article left in my car is mine if no one puts in a claim for it within six weeks. The six weeks were up yesterday, and the company told me to take the eggs away."
"Too bad," said the passenger.
"Rotten," said the conductor.—Kansas City Newsbook.

Why They Desert.

American navy while along the Cali-
been assigned for the real one is that our ambitious American youth will
rung in the ladder.

them would be a Marshal's lackey in his
machine that was a terror to the civil-
ration of even its enemies.

Several volunteers have reached the
highest command in the United States army. But not since Bancroft succeeded in having the Naval Academy
established in the forties has a volunteer seaman been an admiral, with
in the Sixties.

for a naval recruit to reach a com-
geant. He may be as well-educated
of faithful and intelligent services,
tune has given a chance to graduate
from Annapolis.

of "Jack" Barry, and Jones, Decatur, Porter, Stewart, McDonough, Perry, Hull, and the other naval immor-tals who "made John Bull listen."

It is true that the ships, and all con-
ter of mechanical and technical skill,
given that chance, desertions will be
ries an admiral's stars in his budget
he will fight shy of the navy.

May Arbitrate.

Observer has created such consterna-
tion in the Republican party that he-
tral Court at The Hague. It is high-
passes upon the matter.

getting that there is any such thing.
ver in crushing its weak opponent.
It is also stated that should Senator
"National Peace Prize" of fifty thousand francs will be given him in recognition of his services in securing peace.

Open To Criticism.

this country who would place the judi-
be spoken of in whispers and criticized
at the peril of an auto-de-fe.

There are no official sacrosanct in the United States. There is no official
criticism. The investiture of a lawyer
would not have Circuit Courts, Superior Courts and Supreme Courts with their five to four decisions. Those who think the judiciary should be free from criticism should read the Declaration of Independence and a certain document which Daniel Webster said
"was made on the grim heads of the
that our fathers entertained no illu-sinations concerning the sanctity of the judiciary.

they are as open to criticism for their acts as a pathmaster or a hogriever
would be.

To Be Remembered.

It should not be forgotten by any body, anywhere, or under any circumstances that the Republican party is the
party in the United States. The
more transparent humbug than the Ob-
the majority party. "We, the Washington Observer," and "We, The Peo-
jocular bombast.

The Preservation of Caste.

It is well known how carefully, apparently at least, the Hindus are to preserve their caste from contamination with anything of a lower order.
In towns where Hindus and Mussulmans, followers of Mohammed, live
portholes, one for each religion. The
of the caste of the man who supplies
the water and his own caste is consequently unbroken.

From Hand to Mouth.

"I'll never speak to him again," ex-
might kiss my hand. I said yes, and
without asking."
"I suppose," said the light young wo-
least resistance."

Melancholy Milk.

"Haven't you any milk that is more
cheerful than this?" queried the new boarder as he poured some of the liquid into his coffee.
queried the landlady.
the blues."

Mean of Her.

me," said young Mrs. Papley fondly.
"Yes, the cute little thing," remarked
has!"—Philadelphia Press.

taken from the Monessen News:
Most men, especially those making
serve on a jury as equivalent to placing a smallpox sign on their homes.
chatter. This gable takes time and time is money to the average
juror. But it must be kept in mind
and so they gabble, let it cost the
human mind with despair. The
matter.

avoid the loss. When cases are tried
with promptness and dispatch, there
vice.

Commenting upon the death of a
man as the result of a practical joke,
the McKeesport Times says:

murder charge against John Perdell, the Duquesne huzer whose brutal "joke" cost a fellow-workman, Charles Kaseberg, his life, stated that he made the more serious charge against Perdell for exemplary effect, and intimated that otherwise the absence of
tend to kill would have caused him to
make Perdell's case an expiatory
one. The man probably did not in-
was likely to be harmless to its victim. A man's life was sacrificed to
the "joker" seem to have entertain-
atonement. A long term in prison
Perdell and it might have a deterrent effect upon fools with similar propen-
spoil a chance to display the joker's
as an institution he ought to be abolished. It would be a move in the in-
humorless and cruel jokes with mortals, burglaries, robberies and other
the most dangerous men in the country are those who make a sport of which the Duquesne man is a conspicuous specimen. The grand
tablish an excellent precedent.

A Bride With Some Good Points.

district in England there lived a farmer who wanted to sell one of his cows.
There was not at that time a weekly
giving out his notices at church to advertise the cow.

bargain that the vicar should adver-
gave out the banns of marriage between Joseph So-and-so, bachelor, and Sarah So-and-so, spinster, the farmer
giving out particulars of his cow and
shouted out:

"You might as well say while you
creature and entirely free from vice."
—Stray Stories.

Works Both Ways.

"They bore one, these society calls,
lady. "They bore one."
"Sometimes they bore two," responded the young man, taking the hint and likewise his departure.—Louisville Cor-rier-Journal.

A Preserve Owner's Sick Trout.

man had been limited to an occasional day's fishing in the mountains sought
forward with great interest to the last opportunity to fish in his own pond,
ing his house, and in hand.

inquired as to what luck he had had.
preserve, "but they all seem to be sick."

them?" asked the sportsman.
"Well," answered the preserve owner, "to tell the truth, we were afraid
fore."

the sportsman, "that any trout will turn pink if it lives in salt water? Your pond empties into the sound, and of course the trout run in
you with pleasure."—New York Times.

A Tiny State.

rino is a more tiny on the map of the world, being the smallest state in the world as well as the oldest independent republic. Its area is thirty-eight square miles, and little less than twice that of the island of Manhattan.
It is entirely landlocked, and is wholly independent. Its situation is on the easterly side of the Emilian Apennines
and about twelve miles from Rimini, on the Adriatic sea. The republic is only twenty-four miles in length,
bronze and silver currency, coined by Italy, 128,000 lire of the latter and 105,000 lire of the former. The principal ports are Ancona, Civitavecchia and the military force of the republic numbers 68 officers and 1,000 men.

The Wild Boar.

The wild boar is a most voracious
most other forms of sport, and it often
honor of "first spear" by a sudden
"jink" or turn of the pig. The boar,
not only possessed of a great turn of
will turn and twist like a hare, putting
every obstacle in the shape of bushes,
and his pursuers, but all the time mak-
and Dramatic News.

Making More Than

a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tiny interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank.

"Worse Than Too Bad. The suburbanite stood on the back platform of the car smoking a morning cigar. He struck up a conversation with the conductor when that brass bottomed seat was not busy. "Whatever became of that basket of eggs that was left on your car?" he inquired. "I took them home," gloomily replied the conductor. At the astonished look from the passenger the conductor explained:

"You see, any article left in my car is mine if no one puts in a claim for it within six weeks. The six weeks were up yesterday, and the company told me to take the eggs away." "Too bad," said the passenger. "Rotten," said the conductor.—Kansas City Newsbook. Shakespeare's Descendants. Besides his first child, Susanna, Shakespeare's only other children were a boy and a girl, twins, born in 1600.

Susanna married a Dr. Hall, a Stratford physician, in 1607, was left a widow in 1635 and died in 1640. She had only one child, a daughter, who, though twice married, left no children. Of the latter, the late actress, Mrs. died at the age of eleven, and the girl, Judith, married Thomas Quincey, and had three sons, who all died childless.—New York American.
